

Professor Bernardo Ng
MD, DFAPA

Clinical Assistant Professor,
Department of Psychiatry,
University of California San Diego

Bernardo Ng, MD, DFAPA, is an internationally recognized clinician and researcher with special interest in rural and semi-rural areas of the United States and Mexico border region. He has published in minority issues, Latino mental health, telepsychiatry, neurocognitive disorders, and social determinants of health. As a clinician, Ng provides care to children, adolescents, adults, and older adults. His activities in organized psychiatry include having been chair of the Council of International Psychiatry of the American Psychiatry Association, president of the American Society of Hispanic Psychiatry, president of the Mexican Psychiatric Association, and representative for Zone 2 of the World Psychiatric Association.